PHILIPS TECHNICAL REVIEW

A publication of the Research Laboratories of N.V. Philips' Gloeilampenfabrieken, Eindhoven, Netherlands. Twelve issues per year and an average of 32 pages per issue. The Review is published in four editions: English, Dutch, French and German, all identical in contents.

Editors

S. Gradstein, Editor-in-chief
D. M. Duinker, Deputy editor
M. Beun
J. G. Bok
D. van Dalen
E. Fischmann
K. R. Fröhner (German edition)
J. W. Miltenburg
D. Wilkinson (English edition)

	Page		Page
Aerial, small ferroxcube — for VHF reception	332	Magnetic resonance, double —	206
Alloy-diffusion technique for manufacturing high-frequency transistors	231	Milling machine, see Contour milling machine
Arc-welding steel, modern methods	14	Modulation, yesterday and tomorrow	353
Beacons, multi-reflex klystron for microwave —	184	Mounting of components on printed wiring panels	41
Car radio, transistor — with push-button tuning	27	Multi-reflex klystron for microwave beacons	184
Cardboard, trim-losses in the manufacture of corrugated —	121	Nuclear research, technical fruits	1
Colour separation in colour-television cameras	263	Pascal, calculating machine of Blaise —	102
Computers, applications of electronic —:		Physics research, 50 years of — at Philips	341
chessboard puzzle	157	“Plumbicon”, new television camera tube	57
electron trajectories	130	Potential fields, calculation with electronic computer	130
ferroxcube loudspeaker magnets	150	Printed wiring, mechanized mounting of components on — panels	41
magnetic field of isochronous cyclotron	106	Puzzle, solving a chessboard — with the PASCAL	157
potential fields	130	Research Laboratories, Philips —:
trim-losses in the manufacture of corrugated cardboard	121	50 years of Philips research in physics	341
vacuum deposition of resistors	144	modulation, yesterday and tomorrow	353
Computer, listening in to — PASCAL	164	solid-state chemistry	364
Contour milling machine, numerically controlled —,		new complex of buildings, planning	385
I. General description	299	Symposium Eindhoven 1963, summaries of demonstrations and short papers	396
II. The computing unit	308	Resistors, vacuum deposition of —	144
III. The hydraulic servomotor	320	Resonance, double magnetic —	206
Cyclotron, magnetic field of isochronous —	106	Servomotor, hydraulic —	320
Difference amplifiers with rejection factor $> 10^6$	275	Shock testing of incandescent lamps	199
Electron trajectories, calculation with electronic computer	130	Silicon carbide, crystal growth	181
Etch pits on ZnS crystal	61	Solid-state chemistry, contributions of Philips Research Laboratories to —	364
Feeders, vibratory —	84	Steel, methods of arc-welding —	14
Ferrites, magnetization reversal process in square-loop —	242	Symposium at Philips Research Laboratories, Eindhoven, 1963	339-414
Ferroxcube aerial for VHF reception	332	Television:
Fingerprinting via total internal reflection	271	colour separation in colour — cameras	263
“Harmonizing” X-ray images (Ampliscope)	285	“Plumbicon” camera tube	57
Hydraulic servomotor	320	recording on magnetic tape	81
Hydrogen in iron and steel	221	Toys, wireless-powered —	59
Incandescent lamps, shock testing of —	199	Transistors, alloy-diffusion technique for manufacturing high-frequency —	231
Iron, hydrogen in — and steel	221	Transistor car radio with push-button tuning	27
Klystron, multi-reflex — for microwave beacons	184	Vapour, heating in — with independent pressure and temperature adjustment	240
Laser, small stable gas —	95	Vasodilating pharmaceutical	69
Loudspeaker magnets, design of ferroxcube —	150	Vibratory feeders	84
Machine tools, numerical control of —	171	Welding, methods of arc— steel	14
	299	Whiskers of SiC	181
		X-ray images, “harmonizing” (Ampliscope)	285
		Zinc-sulphide crystal, etch pits on —	61

Articles marked with an asterisk * are short communications.
